CDI's Engineering Unit Renews 3-Year, Multi-Site Contract With Shell Oil Company

PHILADELPHIA, May 1, 2006 /PRNewswire-FirstCall via COMTEX News Network/ -- CDI Corp. (NYSE: CDI) announced today that its subsidiary, CDI Engineering Solutions, Inc. ("CDI"), renewed its contract agreement with Shell Oil Company (Houston, Texas) to provide engineering, procurement, construction management, and technical outsourcing services for Shell's US-based petrochemical production facilities and refineries.

The agreement, which allows CDI to provide its services to all facilities owned and/or operated by Shell Oil Company and other Shell affiliates operating in the United States (including Shell Oil Products US [formerly Equilon], and Motiva [Shell's US refining and marketing venture with Saudi Aramco]), extends the period of the initial contract for an additional three years and adds procurement to the terms of the original agreement. Officials did not disclose the value of the contract.

In making the announcement, CDI Executive Vice President Rich Giannone stated, "We are very pleased to extend our ongoing relationship with Shell and to expand our offering to include procurement activities. This is a perfect opportunity to demonstrate the full breadth of value-added services we can offer to Shell."

Company Information

Headquartered in Philadelphia, CDI Corp. (NYSE: CDI) is a leading provider of engineering and information technology outsourcing solutions and professional staffing. Its operating units include CDI Business Solutions, CDI AndersElite Limited, Todays Staffing, Inc. and Management Recruiters International, Inc. Visit CDI at http://www.cdicorp.com.

SOURCE CDI Corp.

Keith G. Landry, Director, Business Development of CDI Corp., +1-713-354-0682, keith.landry@cdicorp.com

http://www.prnewswire.com

Copyright (C) 2006 PR Newswire. All rights reserved.

News Provided by COMTEX