U.S. Army Extends LCCS C-12 Program for DynCorp International

FALLS CHURCH, Va., Jan 08, 2010 (BUSINESS WIRE) -- The U.S. Army has extended service under the final option year of the Army Life Cycle Contractor Support Services (LCCS) C-12 Program for DynCorp International (NYSE:DCP). The current contract, which was awarded to DynCorp International in 2000, was due to expire at the end of January 2010, and has now been extended to July 31, 2010. The extension of service at current rates and an equivalent volume of service as in the final option year is potentially valued at approximately $67 million, based on an equivalent volume of service as the first six months of the current option year.

Under the Army LCCS Program, DynCorp International provides maintenance and logistical support for 190 Army C-12, RC-12, and UC-35 aircraft at more than 70 sites and multiple worldwide deployments. This includes total aircraft system maintenance services, logistical support, and management processes to maintain the worldwide fleet.
