Safe Harbor Statement

This press release may contain forward-looking statements. Any such statement is made within the 'safe harbor' provisions of the U.S. Private Securities Litigation Reform Act of 1995. These forward-looking statements can be identified by terminology such as "will," "expects," "anticipates," "future," "intends," "plans," "believes," "estimates," and other similar statements. Statements that are not historical facts, including statements relating to anticipated future earnings, margins, and other operating results, future growth, construction plans and anticipated capacities, production schedules and entry into expanded markets are forward-looking statements. Such forward-looking statements, based upon the current beliefs and expectations of our management, are subject to risks and uncertainties, which could cause actual results to differ materially from the forward-looking statements, including but not limited to, our limited operating history and recent entrance into new markets may make it difficult for you to evaluate our business and future prospects; a decrease in the rate of growth of China's industry and economy may lead to a decrease in our revenues because industrial companies in China are our principal source of revenues, we may not be able to complete the acquisition with our acquisition target EVATECH; our acquisition target is undergoing restructuring in local courts, which may interfere with our ability to close the acquisition of the target company; our acquisition target's restructuring process in local courts relates to financial difficulties it experienced in the operation of its business, and it may continue to experience financial difficulties after we acquire it; our technicians may have difficulty adapting to new technology; systems that we develop and install may contain design or manufacturing defects, which could result in reduced demand for our services and customer claims and uninsured liabilities, as well as other relevant risks detailed in our filings with the Securities and Exchange Commission, including those set forth in our annual report filed on Form 20-F for the fiscal year ended December 31, 2008, amended. The information set forth herein should be read in light of such risks. We assume no obligation to update the information contained in this press release, except as required under applicable law.
