

DRC Awarded $4 Billion IRS Contract to Provide IT and Management Services

ANDOVER, Mass., March 7, 2011 (GLOBE NEWSWIRE) -- DRC (Nasdaq:DRCO), a leading provider of innovative management consulting, engineering, and information technology solutions to federal and state governments, announced that it was selected by the Internal Revenue Service as one of 33 awardees for the Department of Treasury's Total Information Processing Support Services Information Technology Services contract, known as TIPSS-4 ITS. The $4 billion ceiling, 10-year, indefinite-delivery, indefinite-quantity contract has a base year and nine, one-year options.

The TIPSS-4 contracts are the primary procurement vehicles for technology-related services within the IRS and other Treasury bureaus. DRC and other contract awardees will be providing support, which encompasses a large spectrum of services concerning local microcomputer applications to large-scale integrated legacy systems, and newly developed systems, as well as security services and program management.

"This is a very important milestone for DRC as we continue to grow our IT and project management solutions for financial and regulatory agencies," said Jim Regan, DRC's chairman and chief executive officer. "We are excited to bring forward our proven practices in IT and management services to ensure the IRS, the Treasury Department, and its bureaus have systems operating with efficiency and accuracy — a necessity at a time where every dollar counts for both the government and citizens."

The TIPSS-4 ITS contract is designed to provide the state of the art, modern technology services throughout the period of performance of the contract. DRC provides analyses, develops recommendations and implementation strategies, transitions large-scale systems and updates existing systems and procedures.
