

DRC Awarded $1.9 Billion U.S. Air Force Design and Engineering Support Program Contract

ANDOVER, Mass., Jan. 30, 2012 (GLOBE NEWSWIRE) -- Dynamics Research Corporation (Nasdaq:DRCO), a leading provider of innovative management consulting, engineering, science and technology solutions to federal and state governments, today announced that it was selected by the Air Force as one of 26 awardees of the Design and Engineering Support Program (DESP) III contract.

The indefinite-delivery, indefinite-quantity contract has a $1.9 billion ceiling and a basic 5-year ordering period with a 7-year period of performance. Under the terms of the contract, DRC will be providing a broad range of engineering services to support the Air Force and other Department of Defense commands.

"With $95 million of bookings on the predecessor DESP II contract, DRC was among the most used suppliers. The award of DESP III, along with our broad portfolio of agency and department-wide contracts enables us to continue to deepen our relationship with the Air Force and the Defense Department," said Jim Regan, DRC's chairman and chief executive officer. "We are pleased to participate in this leading-edge program and look forward to leveraging the full range of our engineering capabilities and thought leadership."

DRC will focus on improving system lifecycle cost, operational performance, and sustainment which includes maintainability and support, safety and environmental friendliness, and education and training.
