INVISIO ranked one of Sweden's fastest growing technology companies

INVISIO, which develops and sells advanced communication solutions incorporating hearing protection, is one of Sweden's 50 fastest growing technology companies according to Deloitte's annual ranking "Sweden Technology Fast 50". INVISIO has grown 434 percent in the last four years.

"Being ranked as one of the fastest growing technology companies confirms that what we do is right, and is also a motivator to become even better and continue our growth journey. INVISIO was also recently designated a Gazelle company by Swedish business magazine Dagens Industri. Both awards demonstrate the strength of our business model and are proof of our hard work," says Lars Højgård Hansen, CEO of INVISIO.

Rankings for 2016 were presented at an event at Nasdaq in Stockholm on November 15. Of the 50 companies on the list, INVISIO came 35th.

About Deloitte Sweden Technology Fast 50

The only cross-industry ranking of technology companies in Sweden. The award is now in its thirteenth year. The ranking includes public and private companies, large and small, in all areas of technology, from Internet specialists to life sciences, computers to semiconductors and software to telecommunications. Growth is based on revenue growth over the past four years according to annual reports submitted to the Swedish Companies Registration Office per July 31.
