Retail Leaders Unite to Move Beyond Omnichannel at SPS Commerce In:fluence 2017

Sponsor lineup represents the leading edge of innovation focused on unified retail

MINNEAPOLIS, April 04, 2017 (GLOBE NEWSWIRE) -- SPS Commerce, Inc. (Nasdaq:SPSC), a leader in retail cloud services, announced that the industry's leading retailers, consulting and technology solution providers are bringing their expertise and insight to the SPS Commerce In:fluence 2017 conference in Minneapolis, Minn., from May 1-3. Attendees will share experiences and strategies to power retail transformation and hear first-hand perspectives of what it takes to succeed in the omnichannel age of retailing.

People at all levels in a variety of organizations attend SPS In:fluence's inspiring keynotes and workshop sessions to learn more about today's consumers and how best to meet their increasing demands. In:fluence also showcases the latest technology and provides ample opportunities for attendees to connect with influential executives, network and discuss how to fix the limitations of their current systems, technologies and business practices by going beyond omnichannel.

"Omnichannel retail is built on collaboration across the supply chain to ensure consumer expectations are met," says Dan Juckniess, chief sales officer, SPS Commerce. "We are excited to introduce In:fluence 2017 attendees to so many valued partners and members of the SPS Retail Network and engage them with inspiring keynotes and workshop sessions so that they can better understand and truly meet the needs of today's channel-agnostic consumers."
