About Assembly Biosciences

Assembly Biosciences, Inc. is a clinical-stage public biotechnology company developing two innovative platform programs: an HBV program advancing a new class of oral therapeutic candidates for the treatment of hepatitis B virus (HBV) infection and a Microbiome program developing novel oral live biotherapeutic candidates, which are designed to treat disorders associated with the microbiome. Assembly's HBV program is advancing multiple drug candidates with the aim of increasing cure rates in patients with chronic HBV. The Company's Microbiome program consists of a fully integrated platform that includes a robust strain identification and selection process, methods for strain isolation and growth under current Good Manufacturing Practices and a patent-pending delivery system, GEMICEL[®], which is designed to allow for targeted oral delivery of live biologic and conventional therapies to the lower gastrointestinal tract. Using its microbiome platform, the Company is developing product candidates for various disease indications.

Forward-Looking Statements

The information in this press release contains forward-looking statements regarding future events, including statements about Assembly's expectations regarding the offering's terms or completion of the offering. Assembly intends such forward-looking statements to be covered by the safe harbor provisions contained in Section 27A of the Securities Act of 1933, as amended, and Section 21E of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, as amended.
