III. GENERAL GUIDELINES AND INFORMATION CHANNELS

This Code of Conduct describes general situations and does not intend to include all circumstances where an ethical conflict might arise from the business dynamics.

The Code of Conduct serves as a guideline for our daily actions. It is easier to guarantee compliance with the Code of Conduct using a reasonable, sensible and prudent criterion when doubts arise. If you are not sure of something, before acting, ask yourself the following questions:

- Am I authorized to do this?
- Will my action be legal?
- Will my decision maintain or improve Tecnoglass' prestige and reputation?
- How would I feel about this if other people knew?
- Would I like to read this in the newspaper?

If you are not sure about the answer to these questions, stop and seek for advice with human resources, the Compliance Officer, Ethics Committee, or ultimately, with the Audit Committee of the Board of Directors.

There may be situations where consulting could result uncomfortable. Tecnoglass has a direct, anonymous, independent hotline, which seeks to guarantee that whoever reports in good faith does not suffer any retaliation.

The commitment of all Recipients and of Tecnoglass is to report situations that constitute inappropriate behavior, as well as to cooperate in any investigations in compliance with applicable regulations. So, when in doubt, consult; when you know, report.
