The Washington Post Names 2U a Top Workplace for Third Consecutive Year

LANHAM, Md., June 19, 2017 /PRNewswire/ -- 2U, Inc. (NASDAQ: TWOU), a leader in delivering best-in-class digital education in partnership with the world's top colleges and universities, today announced it has been awarded a 2017 Top Workplaces honor by The Washington Post and is ranked #9 in the large companies category. This marks the third consecutive year 2U is named a Top Workplace by The Washington Post.

"I'm honored that, based on our employees' own feedback, The Washington Post has named 2U to be a top workplace," said Christopher "Chip" Paucek, 2U CEO and co-founder. "'2Utes' are motivated by the common goal of reimagining education all while having fun, striving for excellence and cherishing the opportunity before us. It is our incredible employees and the passion they bring every day that makes 2U the special place it is and a great place to work."

The Top Workplaces lists are based solely on the results of an employee feedback survey administered by WorkplaceDynamics, LLC, a leading research firm that specializes in organizational health and workplace improvement. Several aspects of workplace culture were measured, including alignment, execution and connection, to name a few.

2U is currently hiring in its offices in Lanham, MD; Denver; Los Angeles and New York City. For more information about the company's employee-focused benefits package and current job openings, visit 2U's career page: 2U.com/careers.
