

K2M Acquires World's First & Only FDA-Cleared Cervical Static Corpectomy Cage

Research supporting favorable findings on the PALO ALTO® Cervical Static Corpectomy Cage System to be presented at NASS 2017

LEESBURG, Va., Oct. 23, 2017 (GLOBE NEWSWIRE) -- K2M Group Holdings, Inc. (NASDAQ:KTWO) (the "Company" or "K2M"), a global leader of complex spine and minimally invasive solutions focused on achieving three-dimensional Total Body Balance™, today announced that it has acquired from Cardinal Spine, a privately held medical device company, the PALO ALTO® Cervical Static Corpectomy Cage System. PALO ALTO, a cervical vertebral body replacement device, is the first and only static corpectomy cage in the world to receive a cervical 510(k) clearance from the U.S. Food & Drug Administration (FDA). In addition to PALO ALTO, K2M has also acquired the associated intellectual property and product inventory.

The PALO ALTO Cervical Static Corpectomy Cage System is indicated for use in the cervical spine in skeletally mature patients to replace diseased or damaged vertebral bodies, or for reconstruction to achieve decompression of the spinal cord and neural tissues in cervical degenerative disorders. It is intended for use with autograft or allogenic bone graft comprising cancellous and/or corticocancellous bone graft, as an adjunct to fusion.

"K2M has always impressed me with their innovative technologies. I'm elated about PALO ALTO; the long-term clinical data showed a 96 percent fusion rate," said Frank P. Castro Jr., MD, an orthopedic surgeon at Baptist Health Floyd in New Albany, Indiana, and founder of Cardinal Spine. "The trapezoidal design helps increase the graft-host surface contact area, while providing resistance to posterior cage migration."

The PALO ALTO Cervical Static Corpectomy Cage System will be featured in a scientific session at the 2017 North American Spine Society (NASS) meeting. The presentation entitled, "Cardinal Spine, LLC: ACCF: 30-Month Follow-Up on C-VBR," will be facilitated by Dr. Castro on Wednesday, October 25 from 2:29 to 2:35 p.m. in Room W230CD.

"We are excited to expand our complex cervical offerings by adding the first and only FDA-cleared static cervical vertebral body replacement device," said K2M Chairman, President, and CEO Eric Major. "We look forward to fully integrating this clinically supported technology into our differentiated product portfolio, which when complemented by our comprehensive Balance ACS™ platform, allows surgeons to address the full range of spinal pathologies, and ultimately, to facilitate Total Body Balance in their patients."

During NASS, K2M will showcase PALO ALTO, as well as several of its latest offerings, at Booth #509. For more information on K2M's complete product portfolio, visit www.K2M.com. For more information on Balance ACS, visit www.BACS.com.
