B. Audit Committee Financial Expert

An "audit committee financial expert" means a person who has the following attributes:

- An understanding of generally accepted accounting principles and financial statements;
- The ability to assess the general application of such principles in connection with the accounting for estimates, accruals and reserves;
- Experience preparing, auditing, analyzing or evaluating financial statements that present a breadth and level of complexity of accounting issues that are generally comparable to the breadth and complexity of issues that can reasonably be expected to be raised by the Company's financial statements, or experience actively supervising one or more persons engaged in such activities;
- An understanding of internal control over financial reporting; and
- An understanding of Committee functions.

A person shall have acquired such attributes through:

- Education and experience as a principal financial officer, principal accounting officer, controller, public accountant or auditor or experience in one or more positions that involve the performance of similar functions;

An individual is financially literate if he or she has the ability to read and understand a set of financial statements that present a breadth and level of complexity of accounting issues that are generally comparable to the breadth and complexity of the issues that can reasonably be expected to be raised by the Company's financial statements.

APPENDIX 2.

Section 10A(g), (h) and (i) of the Exchange Act provide as follows:

Subsection (g) makes it unlawful for the Company's registered public accounting firm to provide to the Company, contemporaneously with the audit, any non-audit service, including the following:

1. bookkeeping or other services related to the accounting records or financial statements of the audit client;
2. financial information systems design and implementation;
3. appraisal or valuation services, fairness opinions, or contribution-in-kind reports;
4. actuarial services;
5. internal audit outsourcing services;
6. management functions or human resources;
7. broker or dealer, investment adviser, or investment banking services;
8. legal services and expert services unrelated to the audit; and
9. any other service that the Board determines, by regulation, is impermissible.

Subsection (h) mandates that the Company's registered public accounting firm may engage in any non-audit service for the Company, including tax services, that is not described in any of paragraphs 1 through 9 above, only if the activity is approved in advance by the Audit Committee in accordance with subsection (i).

Subsection (i) requires that all auditing services and non-audit services, other than those that meet the de minimus exception, provided to the Company by its auditor must be preapproved by the Audit Committee. This subsection also describes disclosure requirements with respect to non-audit services and permits the Committee to delegate to one or more members of the Committee who are independent directors, the authority to grant preapprovals.

The de minimus exception provides that the preapproval requirement is waived with respect to the provision of non-audit services for the Company, if--:

- i. the aggregate amount of all such non-audit services provided to the issuer constitutes not more than 5 percent of the total amount of revenues paid by the issuer to its auditor during the fiscal year in which the nonaudit services are provided;
- ii. such services were not recognized by the issuer at the time of the engagement to be non-audit services; and
- iii. such services are promptly brought to the attention of the audit committee of the issuer and approved prior to the completion of the audit by the audit committee or by 1 or more members of the audit committee who are members of the board of directors to whom authority to grant such approvals has been delegated by the audit committee.

APPENDIX 3.

Section 10A of the Private Securities Litigation Reform Act requires that the independent auditor disclose any illegal acts it discovers in the course of an audit. The independent auditor initially must disclose the illegal act to the appropriate level of management and keep the Committee adequately informed. If management has not taken appropriate remedial action with respect to an illegal act that has a material effect on the company's financial statements and the failure to take appropriate remedial action is reasonably expected to warrant departure from a standard report of the auditor or warrant resignation from the audit engagement, the independent auditor must directly report its conclusions to the board of directors. Upon receipt of such notice the board of directors must inform the SEC and provide the independent auditor with a copy of the notice to the SEC. If the company fails to notify the SEC, the independent auditor must resign from the engagement or furnish to the SEC a copy of its report.

APPENDIX 4.

Statement on Auditing Standards No. 61 requires that the auditor ensure that the Committee receives additional information regarding the scope and results of the audit that may assist the Committee in overseeing the financial reporting and disclosure process. The matters to be discussed include the selection of and changes in significant accounting policies or their application, the process used by management in formulating accounting estimates and the basis for the independent auditor's conclusions regarding the reasonableness of those estimates, audit adjustments that could have a significant effect on the Company's financial reporting process, disagreements between the independent auditor and management over the application of accounting principles to the Company's specific transactions and events, discussions management may have had with other accountants about auditing and accounting matters and serious difficulties the independent auditor had in dealing with management related to the performance of the audit.
