American Water's Jennifer Gambol to Participate in New York City Bar Association Panel

VOORHEES, N.J.--(BUSINESS WIRE)-- American Water (NYSE: AWK), the nation's largest publicly traded water and wastewater utility company, today announced Jennifer Gambol., vice president and treasurer, will participate in the New York City Bar Association's Project Finance Committee Panel on March 28 in New York, N.Y.

Gambol will join other industry and government leaders on a panel to discuss the development and financing of water infrastructure projects and explore initiatives underway seeking to mobilize public and private sector capital. She will also provide recommendations that American Water believes will help break down existing barriers to private investments, statutory and regulatory hurdles that challenge private—public sector innovation and cooperation, and ways to maximize the options and opportunities available to communities.

The New York City Bar Association (City Bar) founded in 1870, is a voluntary association of lawyers and law students. Today, the City Bar has over 24,000 members. The City Bar's mission is to equip and mobilize the legal profession to practice with excellence, promote reform of the law, and uphold the rule of law and access to justice in support of a fair society and the public interest in our community, our nation, and throughout the world.

With a history dating back to 1886, American Water is the largest and most geographically diverse U.S. publicly-traded water and wastewater utility company. The company employs more than 6,700 dedicated professionals who provide regulated and market-based drinking water, wastewater and other related services to an estimated 15 million people in 47 states and Ontario, Canada.
