

CACI Chairman Dr. J.P. (Jack) London Inducted into Naval Postgraduate School Hall of Fame

Honor Recognizes Exceptional Contributions to Society, the Nation, and His Alma Mater

ARLINGTON, Va.--(BUSINESS WIRE)-- CACI International Inc (NYSE:CACI) announced today that CACI Chairman of the Board Dr. J.P. (Jack) London has been inducted into the Naval Postgraduate School (NPS) Hall of Fame. The honor was bestowed by NPS President Daniel Oliver at a ceremony held at the school's Monterey, CA campus. Dr. London and fellow inductee Admiral Stanley Arthur (Ret.) each accepted the school's medal marking the occasion. Commemorative plaques honoring the gentlemen will be displayed in the Hall of Fame.

The Hall recognizes the accomplishments of NPS's most distinguished alumni who, through the attainment of positions at the highest levels of public service, have made the greatest contributions to society, their nations, and the university. The school is a graduate-level academic institution offering master and doctoral programs in more than 60 fields of study — all with a unique and focused emphasis on enhancing national security.

Dr. London is a graduate of the U.S. Naval Academy (1959) and the NPS (1967), where he earned, respectively, a Bachelor of Science in naval engineering and a Master of Science in operations research. He holds a doctorate in business administration conferred "with distinction" from George Washington University (1971). His active duty career extended from 1959-1971, during which London initially served as a naval aviator and carrier pilot. Later, during the Vietnam War, he served as Aide and Administrative Assistant to the Vice Chief of the Naval Material Command, Department of the Navy.

Dr. London has been instrumental in growing CACI from a small consulting firm into a worldwide professional services and IT company serving vital national needs in defense, intelligence, homeland security, and the modernization of government. He was the architect of CACI strategies that continually positioned the company for growth in rapidly changing business climates, and he created the company's robust mergers and acquisition program. His leadership in developing CACI's reputation for its culture of ethics and integrity is known throughout the industry. He also belongs to the Washington Business Hall of Fame and the Arlington, Virginia Chamber of Commerce Business Hall of Fame, both lifetime achievement awards honoring his major positive impact on the business and civic life of these communities.

In his acceptance remarks, Dr. London thanked the more than 14,300 people of CACI, pointing out, "Our remarkable team of professionals is the key to our success as a company and as a provider of critical support to the government. These talented men and women drive the innovation that contributes so much to our record financial performance and they develop the solutions that help our customers serve our nation's priorities so effectively."

CACI President and CEO Paul Cofoni noted, "Everyone at CACI congratulates Dr. London on this added honor to an already stellar career. Throughout his long and distinguished tenure with our company, he has continually championed the leadership and management qualities he gained in his long military service, accentuated by his singular sense of ethical behavior and fierce devotion to our nation."
