CACI Awarded $165 Million Prime Contract to Support Procurement Initiatives Across the Department of Defense

Ongoing Work Utilizes Company's Proven Standard Procurement System to Provide Decentralized Purchasing Capability for All DoD Components

ARLINGTON, Va.--(BUSINESS WIRE)-- CACI International Inc (NYSE:CACI) announced today that it has been awarded a $165 million prime contract to support the Department of Defense (DoD) with procurement initiatives through the company's Standard Procurement System (SPS). The single-award, indefinite delivery/indefinite quantity (IDIQ) contract is for five years (one base year and four option years) and continues the SPS services CACI has been providing through previous awards.

CACI's work on the contract will automate procurement activities and offer decentralized purchasing capability for all DoD components. The award of the prime contract was accompanied by an order in the amount of $3 million to provide customer support services to U.S. Air Force SPS users.

SPS provides the full range of contract management capabilities to the procurement community across the DoD enterprise, while integrating with financial logistics and other business systems. In the 2011 fiscal year alone, SPS processed more than 875 million transactions totaling over $190 billion in value.

CACI provides acquisition and procurement solutions throughout the federal sector and oversees the largest installed base of acquisition solutions within DoD. This has positioned the company as a leader in acquisition domain expertise. This broad knowledge base, obtained through the SPS Program in addition to other acquisition systems, has positioned CACI to work with a leading enterprise resource planning (ERP) provider to produce an overall solution capable of meeting the government's current and future procurement needs.

According to Dan Allen, CACI President of U.S. Operations, "This significant award from the Department of Defense illustrates the high level of confidence it has in the capabilities of our Standard Procurement System. Now deployed and installed at nearly 800 sites worldwide, SPS is an important tool in transforming the federal procurement process within the department."

CACI President and Chief Executive Officer Paul Cofoni said, "As the cornerstone for the Department of Defense's paperless acquisition initiative, our Standard Procurement System offers huge cost savings, efficiency, and consistency across the department. Certainly of equal importance, SPS enhances the efficiency of the purchasing process to speed the flow of critically important equipment and technology to our servicemen and women deployed overseas."
