

CACI Awarded $635 Million in Previously Unannounced Contracts to Provide Support for the U.S. Army

ARLINGTON, Va.--(BUSINESS WIRE)-- CACI International Inc (NYSE: CACI) announced today that it has been awarded approximately $635 million in previously unannounced contracts with the U.S. Army. For these awards, CACI is supporting U.S. forces by providing services and solutions in the areas of mobility, cyber, and C4ISR (command, control, communications, computers, intelligence, surveillance, and reconnaissance). These contracts were awarded in the first quarter of CACI's 2012 fiscal year, which ended September 30, 2011.

This new and continuing work falls under the Army's Strategic Services Sourcing (S3) contract vehicle. CACI's services will help enhance the Army's combat capabilities in the face of asymmetric threats by enabling U.S. forces to detect and locate multiple enemies through sophisticated sensors and radio signals. CACI will provide research, development, training, and operational support for sensors systems, signals intelligence systems, and ground-based battlefield intelligence.

CACI President of U.S. Operations Bill Fairl said, "CACI continues to win work that enables us to deliver quality services and solutions that assure U.S. forces are equipped with the most cost-effective and supportable C4ISR technologies to protect them and provide a tactical edge."

According to Paul Cofoni, CACI President and Chief Executive Officer, "C4ISR is one of CACI's core capabilities, and it is an area in which we consistently see growth. Our ongoing achievements in supporting the U.S. Army through the Strategic Services Sourcing contract vehicle demonstrate the success of our strategy to focus on mission-critical services and solutions, like C4ISR, that help our clients meet their highest priorities."
