

CACI Awarded $243 Million in Previously Unannounced Contracts to Support National Security and Intelligence

Knowledge Management and Document Exploitation Solutions Help Anticipate and Counter Threats

Arlington, VA, January 24, 2008 - CACI International Inc (NYSE:CAI) announced today that it has won approximately $243 million in previously unannounced contracts with federal government clients in the national security and intelligence communities. For these awards, CACI is providing professional services and information technology to organizations engaged in helping to counter global threats and assuring national security. All the contracts were awarded in the second quarter of CACI's fiscal year 2008, which ended December 31, 2007. For the full first half of CACI's fiscal year 2008, July 1 to December 31, the company has recorded approximately $462 million in awards of classified contracts.

CACI's offerings under these contracts include knowledge management and document exploitation solutions, as well as translation services, that enable clients to capture, organize, and share critical intelligence data. CACI software tools are capable of categorizing and machine-translating vast collections of foreign language documents, then uploading them to databases that provide easy access for government decision-makers.

According to Bill Fairl, CACI's President of U.S. Operations, "Providing a steady flow of intelligence support is a key growth area for CACI. The previously unannounced contracts we are making public today deliver services and technologies that optimize intelligence capabilities and help our government anticipate threats and contribute to the nation's defense."

CACI President and CEO Paul Cofoni said, "Actionable intelligence is our nation's first line of defense. We're proud of the work we do in this highly specialized arena, and the expert professional services and information technology we bring to our clients' important missions. These contract awards reflect our increased involvement with the Intelligence Community and our significant role as a national asset for national security."

CACI International Inc provides the IT and network solutions needed to prevail in today's new era of national security, intelligence, and e-government. From systems integration and managed network solutions to knowledge management, engineering, simulation, and information assurance, we deliver the IT applications and infrastructures our federal customers use to improve communications and collaboration, secure the integrity of information systems and networks, enhance data collection and analysis, and increase efficiency and mission effectiveness. Our solutions lead the transformation of national security and intelligence, assure homeland security, enhance decision-making, and help government to work smarter, faster, and more responsively. CACI is a member of the Fortune 1000 Largest Companies of 2007 and the Russell 2000 index. CACI provides dynamic careers for approximately 11,600 employees working in over 120 offices in the U.S. and Europe. CACI is the IT provider for a networked world.
