

SCO Announces Upgrade to SCOoffice Server(TM) 4.2

SCOoffice Server 4.2 upgrade offers significant and new features for customers including an upgrade for the Office Connector component and domain-specific branding

LAS VEGAS, Oct 20, 2008 /PRNewswire-FirstCall via COMTEX News Network/ -- SCO Tec Forum -- The SCO Group, Inc., (Pink Sheets: SCOXQ), a leading provider of UNIX(R) software technology and mobile services, today announced that it has released a significant upgrade to SCOoffice Server(TM) 4.2. SCOoffice Server 4.2 is a full-fledged Internet e-mail and collaboration system designed for OpenServer(TM) 6 and UnixWare(TM) 7.1.4 users. SCOoffice Server 4.2 benefits small and medium businesses with its secure and easy-to-use feature set, non-technical administration, and low price point.

SCOoffice Server 4.2 offers customers enhanced capabilities for task management, shared address books, group scheduling as well as security features for secure e-mail access, and defending against viruses and spam. Outside of the office, users can access their e-mail from any wireless access protocol (WAP)-enabled browser using a mobile device. In addition SCOoffice Server provides complete collaboration support through a full-featured WebClient delivered through popular web browsers such as Internet Explorer, Netscape, and Firefox.

"This is an important upgrade to SCOoffice 4.2 users," said Andy Nagle, director of development at SCO, "This upgrade includes many new features customers have been anticipating, particularly Connector support for Windows(R) Vista(R) and Outlook(R) 2007," said Nagle. Other new features include new support for domain-specific graphical branding in the web client and the admin site as well as a new Rich Text Editor for using in composing e-mail within the web client.

SCOoffice Server 4.2 includes migration tools to make it easy for Microsoft Exchange users to migrate their contacts and calendar items and because of its low price point, SCOoffice Server is a very inexpensive alternative to Exchange.
