Appendix

The following slides contain certain financial measures which are not based upon generally accepted accounting principles, or GAAP. The non-GAAP measures utilized are free cash flow and adjusted net income. The Company defines free cash flow as net cash (used in) provided by operating activities less capital expenditures (other than capital expenditures related to the expansion of the Company's Grundartangi, Iceland facility) and including the net increase in short term investments due to their liquidity. The Company defines adjusted net income as net income excluding the after-tax net loss or gain on forward contracts.

The Company's calculations of free cash flow and adjusted net income may not be comparable to similarly titled measures reported by other companies due to differences in the components used in their calculations. The Company's management believes the presentation of free cash flow is a useful measure that helps investors evaluate the Company's capacity to fund its ongoing cash operating requirements, including capital expenditures and debt service obligations, and to make acquisitions or other investments. Free cash flow should not be considered as a substitute for cash flows from operating activities as determined in accordance with GAAP. The Company's management believes the presentation of adjusted net income is a useful measure that excludes a largely non-cash item that can display significant volatility. Management thus believes the measure of adjusted net income is representative of the current earnings of the Company. Adjusted net income should not be considered as a substitute for net income as determined in accordance with GAAP. The following slides include reconciliations of free cash flow and adjusted net income to their most comparable GAAP financial measures.

Annex A: Forward Looking Statements

Statements in this presentation and the accompanying press release and conference call that relate to future results and events (including statements about Century's anticipated financial and operating performance) are forward-looking statements based on current expectations and projections about future events. Many of these statements may be identified by the use of forward-looking words such as "expects," "anticipates," "plans," "believes," "projects," "estimates," "intends," "should," "could," "would," "will," and "potential" and similar words. These forward-looking statements are subject to risks, uncertainties and assumptions including, among other things, those discussed in Century's periodic filings with the Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC), including the "Risk Factors" and "Management's Discussion and Analysis" section of our latest annual report and quarterly reports. Such factors include:

- Our indebtedness reduces cash available for other purposes and limits our ability to incur additional debt and pursue our growth strategy;
- The cyclical nature of the aluminum industry causes variability in our earnings and cash flows;
- The loss of a customer to whom we deliver molten aluminum would increase our production costs and potentially our sales and marketing costs;
- Glencore International AG ("Glencore") owns a large percentage of our common stock and has the ability to influence matters requiring shareholder approval;
- We enter into forward sales and hedging contracts with Glencore that help us manage our exposure to fluctuating aluminum prices. Because Glencore is our sole metal hedge counterparty, a material change in our relationship with Glencore could affect how we hedge our exposure to metal price risk;
- We could suffer losses due to a temporary or prolonged interruption of the supply of electrical power to one or more of our facilities, which can be caused by unusually high demand, blackouts, equipment failure, natural disasters or other catastrophic events;
- Due to volatile prices for alumina and electricity, the principal cost components of primary aluminum production, our production costs could be materially impacted if we experience changes to or disruptions in our current alumina or electrical power supply arrangements, production costs at our alumina refining operation increase significantly or if we are unable to obtain economic replacement contracts for our alumina supply or electrical power as those contracts expire;
- By expanding our geographic presence and diversifying our operations through the acquisition of bauxite mining, alumina refining and additional aluminum reduction assets, we are exposed to new risks and uncertainties that could adversely affect the overall profitability of our business;
- Changes in the relative cost of certain raw materials and energy compared to the price of primary aluminum could affect our margins;
- Most of our employees are unionized and any labor dispute could materially impair our ability to conduct our production operations at our unionized facilities;
- We are subject to a variety of existing environmental laws that could result in unanticipated costs or liabilities and our planned environmental spending over the next three years may be inadequate to meet our requirements;
- We may not realize the expected benefits of our growth strategy if we are unable to successfully integrate the businesses we acquire;
- Our planned Helguvik project is subject to various conditions and risks that may affect our ability to complete the project;
- Continued consolidation of the metals industry may limit our ability to implement our strategic goals effectively; and
- Any further reduction in the duty on primary aluminum imports into the European Union would further decrease our revenue at Grundartangi.

We believe the expectations reflected in these forward-looking statements are reasonable, based on information available to us on the date of this presentation. However, given the described uncertainties and risks, we cannot guarantee our future performance or results of operations and you should not place undue reliance on these forward-looking statements. Century undertakes no obligation to update or revise any forward-looking statements, whether as a result of new information, future events or otherwise.
