

New PowerfulDifference.com Site Provides Tools to Help Visitors Create Social Change Whether They Have 10 Seconds or 10 Months

OAKLAND, Calif. (August 31, 2009) – Only 25 percent of Americans volunteer for an organization at least once a year¹. But the makers of Pine-Sol® cleaners are making it easier for others to see and realize the difference they can make in their lives and their community. The cleaning brand announced today that it has partnered with the non-profit organization Girls For A Change to develop the new Web site www.PowerfulDifference.com, which provides tools and resources for creating social change no matter how busy your schedule or your uncertainty about making an impact.

Among the site's content is a downloadable Make a Powerful Difference Action Kit that takes visitors through an easy process of identifying their passion and taking steps to put that passion into action to affect change. Visitors can also follow the Powerful Difference campaign on Twitter via @PowerfulDiff, which most recently tweeted live from the motivational series Sisterspeak in Washington, D.C., and will also be providing live updates from the Blogalicious conference of women bloggers of color October 10-11 in Atlanta, Ga.

In addition to the new Web site, Pine-Sol® is awarding grants to women who are making extraordinary change in their communities and is proud to enable the younger generation to create change by sponsoring Girls For A Change in the launch of 10 new Girl Action Teams in cities across the country. Learn about these programs and how to get involved on www.PowerfulDifference.com.
