

Compuware Changepoint Professional Services Industry Customers Named Among the 2011 "Best Firms to Work For" by Consulting Magazine

DETROIT, Sept. 28, 2011 (GLOBE NEWSWIRE) -- Compuware Corporation (Nasdaq:CPWR), the technology performance company, salutes the strong performance of its Changepoint professional services automation solution customers Point B, North Highland and Slalom Consulting in Consulting Magazine's "Best Firms to Work For" 2011. This annual report by the magazine is based on a survey of 13,000 consultants from 350 firms, operating across service lines in at least 32 project and practice areas.

Global consulting firm North Highland ranked #3 overall on Consulting Magazine's list of Best Firms to Work For. The firm was also recognized as one of the top firms for its strategy service line as well as its firm culture, career development, compensation satisfaction, work/life balance and leadership.

Management consulting firm Point B ranked #4 overall and ranked #1 for its operations management service line. Point B also ranked in the top ten for client engagement, firm culture, compensation, work/life balance and leadership.

National business and technology consulting firm Slalom Consulting ranked #6 overall, and was recognized among the top ten firms for its strategy service line, firm culture, career development, compensation satisfaction, work/life balance and firm leadership.

"Changepoint provides the critical resource management, project and engagement management and financial controls that allow services organizations such as these to become top performers in their respective industries, and in the consulting industry as a whole. We are extremely pleased to celebrate our customers' top performance in service delivery and operational management," said Lori Ellsworth, Compuware Changepoint senior vice president and general manager.
