

General Automotive Company Announces the Opening of OE Source Los Angeles Office

ORLANDO, Fla., Feb 8, 2010 (GlobeNewswire via COMTEX News Network) -- General Automotive Company (OTCBB:GNAU), a North American provider of aftermarket parts and advanced technology for the automotive industry, today announces the opening of a Los Angeles office of OE Source. OE Source, a wholly owned subsidiary of General Automotive, opened the new LA office to support the expansion of its new export division. The new office will be led by Brandon Cser, the company's newest National Sales Executive.

About General Automotive Company

General Automotive Company ("GAC") is focused on expanding its operating growth platform through multiple and ongoing acquisitions of successful niche manufacturing companies in the automotive industry. Currently General Automotive has two operating subsidiaries. OE Source ("OES") is a provider of original equipment and aftermarket automotive parts and related automotive products. These customers include large, multi-national distributors, manufacturers, and OEM providers. OES specializes in engine management products such as O2 sensors, which is a rapidly growing and government mandated segment of the auto supply industry. General Automotive is also a partner in GreenCell Inc., a joint venture with SenCer Inc., a New York based ceramic technology company. GreenCell with its new advanced ceramics proprietary technology can be a potential game changer in multiple automotive products including oxygen sensors, brakes and SOFC fuel cells for powering automobiles.
