Guidance Software Enriches Professional Services Offering with Outlier Security Partnership

PASADENA, Calif.--(BUSINESS WIRE)-- Guidance Software, makers of EnCase®, the gold standard in digital investigations and endpoint data security, today announced a partnership with Outlier Security, Inc. to jointly provide managed services.

Under the agreement, customers will benefit from access to world-class professional services from Guidance, bolstered by Outlier's innovative technology and analytics. Together, Guidance and Outlier will deliver an unmatched combination of technology and expertise to analyze, respond to, and remediate cyber threats.

"Guidance Software is an industry leader with a long track record of delivering some of the best security and digital investigations solutions and practices anywhere," said Greg Hogle, chief executive officer at Outlier. "We look forward to combining our expertise with Guidance to solve a wider range of customer problems. Working together, we can provide a complete service offering to meet the growing market demand."

The partnership will allow Guidance to expand its service offering to organizations that require an in-house proactive detection and response capacity.

"Guidance is committed to addressing the evolving security needs of its customers with industry-leading services, including forensic investigations, incident response, and data governance services," said David Hydorn, vice president of global services at Guidance Software. "The partnership with Outlier extends our ability to deliver best-in-class solutions, targeted to meet our customers' needs."

About Outlier Security

Outlier Security offers an automated Endpoint Detection and Response (EDR) platform that speeds up the detection and analysis of new and advanced threats, without agents or complex management. The Outlier system provides comprehensive endpoint threat monitoring, alerting, and analysis. The system is agentless and delivered as Software-as-a-Service, resulting in faster deployment and lower cost of ownership than agent-based products. Outlier Security is led by Greg Hogle, a pioneering researcher, author and business leader in the cybersecurity industry. Founded in 2013, Outlier Security is privately held and headquartered in Glenbrook, NV. For more information, visit us online at <https://www.outliersecurity.com>, LinkedIn and Twitter.
