Guidance Software Leads EDR Market with Most Deployed Endpoints

PASADENA, Calif.--(BUSINESS WIRE)-- Guidance Software, makers of EnCase®, the gold standard for endpoint data security and digital investigations, and EnForce™, an automated cyber risk management platform, was listed among the top 10 solution vendors with 25% market share in total EDR endpoints deployed in the January 2017 report from Gartner, "Competitive Landscape: Endpoint Detection and Response Tools".

The report evaluates the top-10 providers most often on Gartner client shortlists and those with the greatest estimated market penetration according to Gartner client inquiry and market observations.

"Our customers, many of the largest organizations in the world, depend on EnCase Endpoint Security to combat cyber threats which demand post-breach detection and remediation tools," said Guidance Chief Marketing Officer Michael Harris. "We are pleased that Gartner recognized Guidance Software as one of the leading providers of EDR solutions with 13.4 Million EDR endpoints deployed."

With deep forensic security roots and a unified agent architecture, Guidance approaches endpoint detection and response from the perspective of deep, 360-degree visibility of all endpoints. "Our customers know that perimeter-based protection is not enough and employ Guidance EDR solutions to remediate the threats that will bypass perimeter solutions," continued Harris.
