In the first Party Crate, subscribers will receive three games, including the SPEAK OUT: JOE SANTAGATO Edition Game, an "adults-only" version of the ridiculous mouthpiece challenge where players try to say phrases while wearing a mouthpiece, featuring edgy "NSFW" content inspired by internet sensation Joe Santagato.

"Delivered right to subscribers' doorsteps, the Hasbro Gaming Crate subscription service makes it easy and convenient for families and fans to try new games," said Jonathan Berkowitz, senior vice president of marketing for Hasbro Gaming. "Whether you're planning a game night at home with your kids, or out with a group of friends, we're confident the games our experts have selected for each crate will provide plenty of fun, laughter and friendly competition."

Starting today, gaming fans can visit hasbrogamingcrate.com to sign up. Subscribers will receive one crate every three months, priced at $49.99 plus shipping per crate, charged automatically when the crate ships. The first Hasbro Gaming Crates will ship in early Fall and subscribers can cancel any time. The Hasbro Gaming Crate service is currently available in Hasbro Gaming Crate caters to multiple types of gamers with two themed crates, each with three games, priced at $49.99 plus shipping per crate, charged automatically when the crate ships. The Party Crate contains games with content geared toward college students, young adults, and parents who are looking to enjoy "adults-only" game nights. The Family Crate offers games designed to be played together and enjoyed equally by kids and adults.

In the first Family Crate, one of the three games subscribers will receive is the MASK OF THE PHARAOH Game, a collaborative, virtual-reality board game in which players download the Mask of the Pharaoh app, which will be available on the App Store or Google Play Store, to their smartphone. Using the included VR mask, players find themselves deep inside a mysterious pyramid in Ancient Egypt. Players must quickly describe a section of the pyramid
