POLITICAL ACTION COMMITTEE

Federal law does not permit corporations to contribute their own funds to federal candidates, political parties, or most other political committees. U.S. law does permit companies to establish a political action committee to collect employee donations to contribute to federal candidates and other committees regulated by the Federal Election Commission (FEC).

The Company has created the Marriott International Political Action Committee (MARPAC) for this purpose. Contributions to federal candidates and committees are made only through MARPAC, in accordance with FEC regulations. To provide funding for MARPAC, the Company periodically solicits voluntary contributions from eligible employees. The Company fully discloses all MARPAC activity on reports filed with the Federal Election Commission (FEC), which are publicly available on the FEC website.

DISCLOSURE OF POLITICAL EXPENDITURES BY NON-PROFIT ORGANIZATIONS

For any trade association of which Marriott is a member or otherwise contributes, Marriott will disclose the portion of Marriott International's payments that are used for lobbying and political expenditures as defined by 26 U.S.C. Section 162(e). Marriott International will semiannually disclose on its website any amounts reported in response to such requests.

PERSONAL EMPLOYEE POLITICAL ACTIVITIES

Marriott's culture encourages individual participation by employees in the political and governmental process. This includes service on governmental bodies, work with advocacy organizations, and participation in partisan political activities. However, pursuant to Marriott's policies, such activities are considered personal, they must be undertaken on an Associate's own time, and may not involve the use of Company resources or coercive solicitations.

OVERSIGHT AND GOVERNANCE

Marriott has internal policies governing political contributions, lobbying, and personal political activities, and enforces compliance through its internal legal and government affairs departments. The Board of Directors reviews these policies and practices regarding political contributions and expenditures by the Company and its PAC semiannually.
