Emphasizes Commitment to Radiology Community and New Quality Program

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz., Jun 3, 2010 (GlobeNewswire via COMTEX News Network) -- NightHawk Radiology Services (Nasdaq:NHWK), the leading provider of radiology solutions to radiology groups across the United States, today launched its newly redesigned corporate website, <http://www.nighthawkrad.net/>, which prominently features its recently published "Commitment to the Radiology Community." The website also includes commentary from NightHawk President and CEO, Dave Engert, offering additional insight and perspective behind the company's steadfast commitment to radiology groups.

Since its release last month, NightHawk's Commitment to the Radiology Community has been received favorably by the radiology community, creating an unprecedented partnership that supports the viability and growth of radiology groups. The Commitment -- combined with NightHawk's best-in-class Quality Assurance program -- is taking the practice of teleradiology to a new level. In a video available on NightHawk's website, practicing Radiologist and NightHawk Chief Medical Officer, Dr. Timothy Myers, discusses the comprehensive quality program that evaluates radiology reporting accuracy and quality in terms of the effect on the patient and patient care.

In addition to the videos, NightHawk's new website offers visitors streamlined navigation to quickly and easily locate the information they need. From company and investor information to NightHawk's innovative Quality Assurance (QA) Program, the newly-designed website demonstrates what sets NightHawk apart from other teleradiology providers and highlights NightHawk's outcomes-focused approach to bringing transparency, accuracy and quality to radiology.

"This has been a year marked by transformation and renewal," explained Dave Engert. "Our website reflects our straightforward approach and our uncompromising commitment to being a long-term partner to radiology groups, dedicated to supporting their success and creating a new quality standard in patient care."
