With over 25 years of leadership in broadcast semiconductor technology and standards, Semtech's leading broadcast video products support all broadcast data rates and formats with customer-focused functionalities. Semtech's robust solutions enable extended reach, higher performance, interoperability with existing infrastructure, and strong signal integrity for next-generation broadcast products, such as 4K and ultra-high definition (UHD).

"The NAB Show is an ideal opportunity to demonstrate our award-winning, next-generation broadcast video UHD-SDI solutions to the industry," said Don Shaver, Director of Video Marketing for Semtech's Signal Integrity Products Group. "Our industry-leading and highly robust products are designed to help push the boundaries of performance, reach and signal integrity, while reducing time to market and design-risks for next-generation UHD TV infrastructure."

About Semtech's UHD-SDI Solutions

Semtech's UHD-SDI products feature ultra-low power consumption and provide industry-leading performance at 12Gbps rates. UHD-SDI is ideal for UHD TV infrastructures, including routers, cameras, monitors, switchers and more. UHD-SDI offers pristine image quality, is backwards compatible with existing SDI systems and is standardized by both the Society of Motion Picture and Television Engineers \(SMPTE\) and the International Telecommunication Union \(ITU\), simplifying UHD TV infrastructure upgrades and reducing risk for broadcasters.
