CEO Statement:

"We are pleased to be presenting at the GHS 100 Energy conference next week in Chicago. The platform provides our group with the opportunity to network with investors, industry colleagues, banking sources and industry analysts. These industry events provide us with a platform to update the audience on the Company's strategic objectives and to reassure our investor base of the viability of their Company during these times. We continue to prudently manage our drilling commitments as well as the balance sheet as we look for opportunities to grow our portfolio in a lower pricing environment. We continue to actively seek accretive acquisitions with additional development potential," stated Keith Larsen, CEO of the Company.
